

Membership Benefits

Membership in ICAC is open and available to any individual or organization with an interest in certification programs. You do not have to currently operate a certification program nor must that program be accredited with ICAC in order to become a member. Membership fees are $200 annually (application at <http://www.icacnet.org/membershipprograms/>). Membership organizations can appoint up to two representatives to officially receive ICAC member benefits.

Membership Benefits Include:

- periodic updates on international developments in activities that affect certification programs
- access to participation in ICAC committee activities
- FREE sample policies and procedure documents. As part of the ISO 17014 accreditation process, there are a number of policies and procedures called for within the standard. ICAC has developed policy templates for many of these policies that most organizations lack. These policy templates include:

Conflict of Interest Policy

Non-Disclosure Policy

Non-Discrimination Policy

Special Needs Policy

Testing Irregularities Policy

Logo Use Policy

Denial and/or Suspension Policy

Appeals Process Procedure

Complaints Process Procedure and more, policies are added periodically and are made available to all members upon publication.